Student Handbook

KNOW · GROW · BE EQUIPPED · SERVE

Theology that enters not only the mind, but also life, family, church, workplace and gospel action.

2026 English Edition · Updated 5 November 2026

Please read first: This handbook helps applicants understand the direction of AMAS Chiang Mai, its learning pathways, course resources and application process. The official school name, scope of accreditation, per-course credits, fees, start dates and degree conferral matters are subject to formal written notices issued by AMAS headquarters and the seminary at the relevant time.

1. Welcome to AMAS Chiang Mai

Welcome to a journey of knowing the Scriptures systematically, building your life, and preparing to serve.

AMAS Chiang Mai is rooted in the truth of Scripture with an evangelical theological foundation. We value systematic study — and equally, truth put into practice in real life. We long to help learners gradually grow in reading, discernment, expression, shepherding, serving, discipling others and passing on the gospel.

Theology is not merely knowing more; it is knowing God more faithfully, following Christ, and serving people.

The Chiang Mai Branch builds on an in-person learning community as an important foundation, combined with online participation and licensed lecture recordings for catch-up, so that those juggling work, family or church service can keep moving forward.

2. Our Vision and Educational Direction

Faithful to Scripture

Testing theology, teaching and practice by the Bible; holding fast the core truth of the gospel.

Building Lives

Learning that brings repentance, obedience, character growth and renewed relationships.

Connected to the Church

The seminary does not replace the local church; it helps learners serve their churches better.

Responding to Mission

Equipping preachers, church co-workers, mission workers and believers willing to serve faithfully.

Practice-Oriented

Bringing classroom learning into family, church, relationships and real ministry settings.

Sustainable Learning

Online, in-person and flexible catch-up combined, helping learners start, persevere and finish.

3. Who Should Apply

- Believers willing to know the Scriptures and the Christian faith systematically;
- Those who want a stable foundation of faith and are committed to continued, serious study;
- Those already serving in a church who hope to be equipped more systematically;
- Those preparing to take up teaching, small-group, care, preaching, discipleship or mission responsibilities;
- Those who cannot enter traditional full-time theological education because of work, family, distance or time — but can commit stable study time.

In reviewing applications the seminary looks at whether the applicant truly understands the programme, is willing to commit stable time, and is willing to accept the shared shaping of truth, life and ministry practice. Specific entry conditions and quotas are subject to the notice current at the time.

4. Two Learning Pathways

Item	Formal B.Th (Enrolled) Pathway	Companion Learning Pathway
For whom	Applicants seeking formal degree courses and credit-based, assessed study	Those who first wish to join open courses, lectures or study groups as fellow learners
How to enter	Enquiry → application → review and registration under headquarters' procedures, establishing student status	Join within the seminary's open scope; B.Th student status is not created automatically
Study records	Courses, assessments and credits recorded under the formal course plan	Participation and completion recorded according to each activity or course
Graduation & certificates	Credits, assessments and graduation review completed under the formal system current at the time	Does not confer the B.Th degree; any certificates of participation are as stated per programme
Moving across	—	Applying later for the formal B.Th requires completing the application and review current at that time; prior learning does not convert automatically into degree credits

Please note: taking part in companion learning, audited courses or church training is not the same as holding formal B.Th student status, and does not automatically generate graduation credits.

5. Curriculum and the Limits of Credit Information

The seminary currently maintains 68 existing course resources in 7 categories. Courses open progressively according to faculty, teaching plans, material preparation and enrolment; the list below is the current catalogue and does not mean every course opens every term.

Category	Courses	Content
New Testament Books	27	Survey of the Four Gospels, plus book-by-book study from Matthew through Revelation (1–2 Thessalonians combined into one course)
Old Testament Books	2	Genesis, Judges
Bible Foundations & Study	3	Bible Survey, Bible Geography, Bible Marking Method
Theology & Thought	12	Old Testament Typology of Redemption, Christian Traditions and Theological Thought, Systematic Theology for Laypeople, Core Tenets of Evangelical Theology, Contextual Theology, Christian Education, Reformed (Calvinist) & Evangelical Theology, Christian Ethics, Understanding Worldviews, Comparative Religion, Understanding Islam, Cults in China
Practical Theology & Pastoral Care	18	New Believer Ministry, New Believer Curriculum, Foundations of Christian Living, Living in Assurance, The Disciple's Life, Prayer & Devotional Life, Liturgics, Evangelism Methods, Vision and Mission, Small Group Ministry, Spiritual Warfare, Inner Healing through God's Word, Homiletics, Preaching Practicum, Worship Leading, Pastoral Counselling, Church Administration, Sunday School Education
History & Culture	3	Culture of Israel, World Church History, Chinese Church History and Faith Foundations
Languages & Tools	3	Greek, Hebrew, AI & Pastoral Practice

About credits: the AMAS Curriculum Table V1.0 (23 September 2026) formally confirms the Bachelor of Theology (B.Th) programme: 27 courses totalling 70 credits, plus 5 practical trainings totalling 7 credits — 77 credits to graduate. Per-course credits within that programme follow the curriculum table. For the other levels (G.Dip, M.Div, D.Min) no formally confirmed per-course credit table has been issued, and for those this handbook still does not invent, infer or display per-course credits. Credit recognition, transfer, exemption and retaking are subject to the final written system of headquarters and the seminary.

6. The 5 Practical Trainings

Practical trainings help learners live out the truth in daily Scripture reading, devotion, prayer, evangelism and giving. Under Curriculum Table V1.0 the B.Th programme has 5 practical trainings totalling 7 credits, and these count toward graduation credits.

- 01 Scripture reading training · 1 credit
- 02 Devotional (Q.T) training · 1 credit
- 03 Prayer training · 2 credits
- 04 Evangelism training · 2 credits
- 05 Giving training · 1 credit

One consistent wording: from Curriculum Table V1.0 (23 September 2026) the official material for the B.Th programme lists 5 "practical trainings" totalling 7 credits that count toward graduation. How the trainings are reviewed and made up is subject to the final written system of headquarters and the seminary.

7. How We Learn, and a Learner's Responsibilities

Online learning community

Learning within real relationships — discussion, care, prayer and walking together.

Online participation

Joining online teaching, reading, discussion and assignments as each course is arranged.

Licensed recordings for catch-up

Provided within the permission of the teacher and course team; not all courses are recorded.

Life and ministry practice

Applying what is learned in family, church, workplace, relationships and gospel action.

Every learner should prepare

- ✓ Stable weekly study time
- ✓ A device and internet access adequate for the courses

- ✓ Reading, assignments and assessments completed as required
- ✓ Proactive communication about absence or difficulty
- ✓ Respect for teachers, classmates and church relationships
- ✓ Confidentiality of what is shared in class and pastoral settings

8. Fees, Giving and Learning Support

The seminary sets course fees on the principle that they should be affordable and keep the work sustainable. The official fee schedule, payment timing, reductions, scholarships and credit-retention arrangements are subject to written notice at the time; until fees are formally confirmed, no individual's verbal promise may be treated as a fee basis.

Tuition and voluntary giving are kept strictly separate. Giving is voluntary and has no bearing on application, admission, grades, credits or graduation. Those in genuine financial difficulty who are committed to serious study may apply through the seminary's process for reduction, instalments or other learning support; personal financial circumstances are handled confidentially by designated staff.

9. Application and Enrolment Process

1. Initial enquiry
   Learn about the seminary's direction, the two pathways, how courses run and current openings.
2. Choose a pathway
   Confirm whether you are applying for formal B.Th student status or joining companion learning.
3. Submit materials
   Complete the application form as required at the time, with the necessary identity, faith, church and study information.
4. Conversation and review
   Admissions staff confirm motivation, study time, understanding of the pathway and matters needing coordination; whether an interview is needed follows current requirements.
5. Written outcome

The outcome may be formal admission, acceptance into companion learning, a request for further materials, a suggestion to defer, or non-admission.

6

Registration and orientation

Complete registration, payment and rules confirmation as notified, join the orientation session, then begin study.

10. Student Status, Graduation and Conferral

- Formal B.Th student status is established through the application, review and registration procedures of headquarters and the seminary.
- Graduation review is based on the formal course plan, completed course records, assessment results and the finally confirmed credit system.
- Companion-learning records do not convert automatically into degree credits or graduation qualification.
- Practical trainings (5 trainings · 7 credits) are reviewed and confirmed by the seminary and count toward graduation credits.
- Credit transfer, exemption, make-up, retakes, leave, resumption, graduation review, certificate signing and conferral follow the formal system as issued.

This handbook makes no promises regarding educational accreditation, degree equivalence, employment, immigration, visas or cross-border recognition. Such matters are subject only to formal documents issued by the competent authorities.

11. Information and Privacy

Application materials, faith background, church relationships, contact details, payment information and pastoral conversations are used only for necessary admissions, service, learning support and secure administration. Both the seminary and learners should respect others' privacy; nothing may be made public, forwarded or used for unrelated publicity without permission.
